THE PIMSLEUR PROGRAM

Learning a language is not about how many words you know, how many catch phrases you are able to memorize, or how much content you can cram into one lesson. In order to speak, you need to use and manipulate the language, to understand the structure and be able to construct your own sentences. Building a house without a solid foundation would be ill-advised: the same can be said about language learning. Once you possess a strong structural foundation, adding vocabulary words becomes very natural.

With this program, you'll begin laying your foundation from the start. It isn't about rote memorization, it's all about active participation. Don't expect to "listen and repeat" your way through a Pimsleur course. Anticipate and Participate is the Pimsleur way!

Let your mouth do the talking, but let your ears be your guide. They are essential to your learning. They need to be trained to understand the nuances, the flow, the intonation, and the sounds of your new language. You need to depend on them.

The skill of listening at normal conversational speeds—while possibly daunting at first—is necessary to acquire spoken communication skills. Your ears need to learn to discriminate and approximate the new sounds. From the very first lesson, we will help you fine-tune those essential listening skills.

A User's Guide is available with instructions on how to get the most out of your Pimsleur Language Program. The spoken Guide is included with the first Unit. Or, go to the address below to download The Pimsleur Guide PDF.
